

The Texas A&M Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory (TVMDL) does not provide cremation services. Following a necropsy examination, remains may only be released to professional crematoriums. On the TVMDL Submission Form, clients may request an animal is held for cremation following a necropsy examination. Arrangements for cremation, including payment and transfer, must be made by the submitting client with their preferred cremation service provider.

TVMDL has compiled a list of frequently-used crematoriums. The agency does not endorse any cremation service. Clients can make arrangements with the professional crematorium of their choosing.
